

Chapter 1

Dealing with Potential Clients and Signing up the Case

DEALING WITH POTENTIAL CLIENTS AND SIGNING UP THE CASE

The first step in any case is signing up the client. Until you have a signed fee agreement contract, you have no rights in the case and no protection against another lawyer signing up the client. Any time a client signs a fee agreement contract, you should also have him/her sign a medical authorization and employment record authorization so you can obtain copies of records evidencing the client's medical treatment from his/her providers and documentation of lost wages from the client's employer. The new Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health ("HITECH") Act requires a medical provider to provide a PDF copy of a client's medical records for under $30. In order to obtain records this way, your client must sign a letter telling the provider to send you records under the HITECH Act and a HITECH medical authorization form. If the client was injured in an automobile accident, you will need a list of all possible underinsured motorist insurers so you can place them on notice of the potential claim in a timely manner. You should have the client execute an acknowledgment of vehicles in the household to make sure that you have documented information that you requested from the client to identify underinsured motorist insurers.

Once a potential client has contacted you to discuss a case, you need to make clear to the client whether you have decided to take the case. The lawyer has potential liability to the client if there is any confusion as to whether the lawyer represents the client. Because of your potential liability to a prospective client, you always should use a rejection letter if you decide not to take a case.

When another lawyer or person refers the case to you, it is customary to send a thank-you letter for the referral. If the referring attorney is retaining part of the fee, you must inform the client of the co-counsel agreement and should send a letter to the referring attorney outlining the co-counsel agreement and the fee arrangement. You may want to have the client execute a formal association agreement so there is no confusion as to the client's understanding of the fee split.

If you are signing up more than one injured party or claimant from the same incident, you may need to have a conflict waiver signed by the clients, especially in situations where there is limited insurance coverage or a passenger may have a claim against the driver of his vehicle.

Below is a list of the forms in this chapter, along with a brief summary of when you might use them:

- 1-001 New Client Information Sheet
-Use this form to collect basic information on a potential client.

FEE AGREEMENT CONTRACT*[FIRM NAME]Contract for Legal Services

The undersigned (“Client”) hereby retains [FIRM NAME] (“Attorneys”) to provide legal services for claims related to: _____ . Client authorizes attorneys to perform all services and incur all costs and expenses as attorneys, in their sole discretion, deem appropriate with regard to this representation.

ATTORNEYS’ FEES

Client agrees to the following attorneys’ fees, which fees shall be withheld from any recovery obtained:

33 1/3 percent of the gross recovery if the case is settled before suit is filed.

40 percent of the gross recovery if suit is filed before the case is resolved.

IF THERE IS NO RECOVERY, ATTORNEYS WILL RECEIVE NO FEE.

COSTS AND EXPENSES IN ADDITION TO ATTORNEYS’ FEES

Client agrees to reimburse attorneys, directly from any recovery received, all costs and expenses incurred in investigating and pursuing claims under this representation. These expenses may include, but are not limited to, costs of investigation and case development; fees for witnesses, consultants and experts; fees for specialized service providers to handle probate matters, trusts, and/or lien resolution matters; filing fees; computer research costs; travel and related expenses; deposition expenses; mediation and trial preparation and presentation expenses; and administrative expenses such as copy and scanning charges, administrative fees, postage and long distance toll charges. Services may be performed in-house (charged at prevailing market rates) or outsourced to a third-party vendor (charged at cost without markup). Interest is added to the total outstanding balance carried forward each month at a rate of [MONTHLY PERIODIC RATE] % per month.

Client agrees all costs and expenses incurred by attorneys, including interest, will be reimbursed at the time a recovery is obtained directly from the funds recovered after attorneys' fees have been deducted. Subject to the termination section below, IF THERE IS NO RECOVERY, CLIENT SHALL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE FOR ANY COSTS AND EXPENSES.

RIGHT TO ASSOCIATE COUNSEL

Client agrees that attorneys may associate other counsel to assist in this representation. If other counsel is associated, client agrees that attorneys may divide the total attorneys' fees based on the sole judgment of attorneys without further notice to or consent of client, so long as such division of fees is in accord with rules governing the conduct of attorneys.

TERMINATION

This contract is being entered into before this matter can be fully investigated and evaluated. Client agrees that attorneys have the right to withdraw from this representation at any time in the event attorneys determine, in their opinion, the chances for a successful outcome do not justify proceeding further.

This contract for legal services may be terminated at will at any time by either party upon written notification subject to the provisions below. In the event client terminates this contract, all unpaid costs and expenses shall immediately become due and payable. Unpaid balances will continue to accrue interest until paid in full. Additionally, attorneys shall be entitled to payment for services rendered before the date of termination. If termination occurs with an offer pending, or after settlement or verdict, attorneys shall be entitled to their full percentage of the recovery as provided in the attorneys' fees section above, with the understanding that those fees were earned.

In the alternative, or in the event no offer is pending and there has been no settlement or verdict or award, attorneys may elect to charge a reasonable percentage based upon the amount of work performed or may elect to payment based upon the time devoted to the case at an hourly rate of [HOURLY RATE] for attorneys and [HOURLY RATE] for support staff. In any event, client grants attorneys a lien and security interest against any proceeds for all unpaid costs, expenses and fees.

ADDITIONAL PROVISIONS

- a. Client agrees to cooperate with attorneys in pursuit of this claim. Client will fully disclose all pertinent facts to attorneys and will keep attorneys apprised in the event the client moves or changes phone numbers.

- b. Client understands that attorneys are not tax professionals and cannot give tax advice.

- c. Client appoints [FIRM NAME] as client's agent and attorney with authority to execute all receipts and/or releases, endorse all checks, drafts, and/or instruments in client's name/names necessary to effect settlement and client hereby confirms all actions of said attorney or agent.

- d. Client understands and agrees that 12 months after completion of the case, attorneys may discard file materials related to this representation. Once that occurs, file materials may not be available from attorneys' office.

- e. Client authorizes attorneys to talk to the media for any purpose.

- f. Client authorizes attorneys to file suit at any point when attorneys, in their sole discretion, determine that is in the best interest of the case.

- g. Client has read this contract and any questions have been addressed to client's satisfaction.

RE: [CLIENT NAME V. DEFENDANT NAME/COMPANY]

Dear [CLIENT NAME]:

As we discussed, my law firm needs to investigate your claim before we can make a decision on whether or not to represent you. In the next few weeks, we will gather documents and information concerning your claim and the damages in the case. Once we have obtained the necessary information and documents, we will then make a decision on pursuing this case. I expect that we will be able to reach a determination by [APPROPRIATE DATE]. Our decision will be based on the chance of prevailing on your claim and the economic likelihood that a recovery in the case will exceed the litigation expenses. We will let you know once a decision has been reached. In the meantime, if you have any questions, please do not hesitate to call.

Dear [CLIENT NAME]:

Thank you for contacting our office concerning a possible personal injury claim. As we discussed, we will not be able to represent you in this matter. The statute of limitations on personal injury claims in Georgia is usually two years. Under Georgia law, it is sometimes necessary to give notice of the claim at an earlier date. If you still wish to pursue this matter, we recommend that you contact another attorney as soon as possible.

REJECTION LETTER: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE CASE

[DATE]

[CLIENT NAME]

[ADDRESS]

RE: [CLIENT NAME V. DEFENDANT NAME/COMPANY]

Dear [CLIENT NAME]:

As we have discussed, my firm will not be pursuing a case on your behalf. We believe it will be difficult to prevail on your claim. In order to prevail, you must prove that the physician deviated from the accepted standard of care. This requires testimony from an expert who is willing to testify that the treating physician committed malpractice.

In addition, we would have the burden of proof at trial to show that the bad outcome was caused as a result of the alleged malpractice of the physician, and it will be difficult to prove this aspect of the case.

The statute of limitations for a medical malpractice claim is generally two years. We recommend that you take your medical records and consult with another attorney as soon as possible if you wish to pursue the matter. If we can ever assist you in the future, please do not hesitate to call.
